Child Gifts Profile

Welcome to Christina's Child Gifts Profile profile. Its purpose is to give a unique insight into Christina's character and potential including her strengths and weaknesses, talents and qualities, needs and desires. It will help guide Christina through the minefield of choices and decisions which lie ahead on her individual journey through life.

As Christina's Profile is extremely specific, it requires an accurate birth time. If you do not know the precise time of Christina's birth, some sections of the information may not be relevant although the overall interpretation will still be valid.

Child Gifts Profile is divided into 3 Chapters - detailed on the next page.

Chapter 1 - Laying Down Foundations

Chapter 2 - Process of Development - Toddler to Teenager

Chapter 3 - Preparing for Independence

The 'Aspects' or individual characteristics are given a Star Rating from one to five to show their relative importance in the Profile. To the right of each pair of 'aspect' symbols is a group of five stars, the more dark stars there are the more important the connection.

In order to produce a valid and balanced report it is necessary to define both the positive and negative qualities of Christina. When reading Child Gifts Profile you will find both the positive and negative qualities of Christina defined. Most people will be happy to learn about the positive ones, while others may get upset over the negative ones.

We all possess contradictions in our personality; they are what give us our uniqueness. With Child Gifts Profile we have tried to balance all qualities as much as possible so you get a good overview. Some Young Persons have more positive charts while others have some difficulties indicated in their charts and this will manifest in their personality.

The 'Child Gifts Profile' profile as outlined here is not set in stone and can be developed positively with your help. If the profile is positive you simply support and direct Christina. Where the profile indicates difficulties for Christina, guidance, direction and boundaries will be important.

Child Gifts Profile is suitable for any young person from about sixteen months old and upwards. That is when she will start manifesting the qualities described. If you are having this profile prepared for a newly born child you will have to wait some time before it begins to make sense and be of value.

Chapter1 - Laying Down Foundations

1. Essential Character - this profiles the general trends and outstanding characteristics of Christina's personality, and includes the nature of her relationship with her father.

However this is not easily defined* so the section entitled 'Emotional and Feeling Nature' must be considered carefully together with this opening section.

* Between the first two sections, which deal essentially with father and mother there is a short section on 'The Dominant Parent'. We do not try to come to a definitive conclusion here but tradition states that the father is externally dominant and the mother is emotionally, or internally, dominant. Make your own decision as to which parent fits the bill best.

2. Emotional and Feeling Nature - this shows how the more passive and sensitive side of Christina's nature is likely to develop and also comments on the nature of the relationship with her mother.

3. At this point we look more directly at the Relationship Between Christina and her Mother.
4. Face and Persona - this is a description of Christina's physical nature; and also her general approach to the world; the way she sees it; and the way she likes to be seen. For instance, does she wear rose-tinted glasses or does she view the world from behind dark glasses?

Chapter 2 - Process of Development - Toddler to Teenager

1. Assertiveness - this describes how Christina makes her presence felt and if she is essentially active or passive. Does she like to push her way to the front, or stay determinedly in the background?
2. Friends and Social Attitudes - this looks at how Christina will get on with others. For instance, will she be a bit of a loner, have hundreds of friends, or just a few who are useful, and so on.
3. Power of the Mind - this describes the approach Christina is likely to take towards the intellectual and academic side of her life and how she will respond to the strictness of education.
4. Earning and Spending Money - this looks at how Christina will handle the money in her pocket or purse. Spendthrift or miser? Such traits establish themselves early and tend to remain with us all our lives.

Chapter 3 - Preparing for Independence

1. Higher Education and Establishing Values - this section describes how Christina, approaching complete independence, lays down the belief and educational framework that will sustain her through her adult life.
2. Approach to Daily Working Life - this looks at how Christina is likely to fare in the harsh world of work. What drive, if any, she has to succeed and how she will deal with the inevitable day-to-day necessities of work.
3. Career and Ambitions - this final section examines how Christina might approach the business of how to make her mark on life, and what areas might be the most productive for her as she grows steadily older.

Chapter 1 - Laying Down Foundations - Essential Character

The Sun signifies our inner sense of identity, and our will. It is the single most important planet in our birth chart and generally describes what we are seeking to become through the journey of life, or perhaps our 'destiny'.

Easy-going

Sun in Sagittarius

Christina's restless spirit will be hard to contain. The ruler of her Sun sign is Jupiter, a planet whose nature is typified by the quality of growth and exaggeration, and it is this tendency to inflate things that will drive Christina to expand her horizons to the uttermost limits. Exploring this enormous territory to the full may take her all her life.

The territory may be physical, in which case Christina may spend time journeying and living away from the country of her birth, or it may be the territory of her mind.

It is most likely to be the latter, for Christina is a seeker of learning and wisdom. Not, it must be said, so that she can bask in a self-congratulatory glow at her own cleverness, but so that she can pass on that wisdom - so that she can pass on her visions and dreams to others.

For such a happy-go-lucky and easy-going person, she is surprisingly highly principled, ethical and idealistic. She operates within a firm moral framework, and has a strong sense of justice and truth.

Her insistence on speaking the truth may lead her into tactlessness, but there will never be any deliberate intention to cause pain. She may offend through carelessness, but never callousness. Christina will be generous, affectionate, and invariably is fun to be around.

Her interests are far ranging and eclectic, and she needs constant stimulus. She also needs freedom. Adaptable, she can change direction easily and enthusiastically, and can plan ahead with vision and insight.

In her relationships, Christina will be just as casual, just as light-hearted, as in every other aspect of her life. Partners will be attracted to her by the warmth of her personality and not because of any romantic qualities!

Due to Jupiter's benign influence, Christina will be both philosopher and clown. She will have a great sense of fun and a warm, generous - even extravagant - nature. Buoyant, exuberant, she'll know how to enjoy herself, how to have fun, and will love to give pleasure to her many friends.

Christina will be always ready for a new experience, a new adventure, the riskier the better! There will be nothing she's afraid to tackle, and nowhere she's afraid to go. To Christina, the journey is what is important, not the destination. To this most optimistic child, it really will be better to travel hopefully than to arrive.

Christina's Wilfulness

Inner Resources

Sun in the 12th House

In her search for identity and purpose, Christina may confuse the issue by looking too far a field; her sense of self-esteem comes from being aware of and making the most of her inner resources, and using them for the benefit of others without thought of reward.

Christina is essentially a dreamer, and it is through those dreams that she can achieve a sense of self, and accomplish something important in the wider world. As a child she may well appear confusing and worrying but she simply inhabits her own world and will develop from there rather than from any external restrictions and expectations placed upon her.

Dream Catcher ★★☆☆☆

Sun Conjunction Neptune

Christina will be very idealistic and highly imaginative in her creativity and self-expression. She will be a sensitive, artistic child who needs room to follow her dreams.

She is compassionate and caring, highly tuned into other people and their emotional nuances, indeed she could well have strong psychic abilities and imaginary friends are very likely in early years. She will have powerful escapist tendencies and it is important that these are directed positively when young so they don't become destructive in later life. She is also a bit of a wanderer and she'll probably go missing from time to time only to turn up in some unexpected place perfectly hale and hearty.

The Dominant Parent

In this section we are using traditional astrological rules for defining Christina's relationship with her father. However this may well be more applicable to Christina's Mother. Generally one or other of the parents has the strongest influence in developing Christina's approach to the outside world. Traditionally this has been the father's role but it could perfectly well apply to her Mother, hence the use of the phrase 'The Dominant Parent'.

Trifle Superficial

Libra 10th House Cusp

Christina will see her father as elegant, eloquent, and generally rather stylish and sophisticated. The problem is that this is not enough on which to base a relationship, and Christina may come to see her father as a trifle superficial. Or she might adopt these characteristics, as she gets older as a way of getting by in the outside world.

Domination

Pluto in the 10th House

Intense and powerful feelings dominate Christina's relationship with her father. Whether it has any basis in reality or not, Christina will tend to see her father as a very powerful, fear-inspiring figure and, in later life, this could translate into a desire to dominate others.

The positive side to this relationship is that Christina may well grow up with an ability to see through facades and cut to the core of a matter rapidly and thus prevent things festering. Because of Christina's childhood power struggles with her father, she will always have the ability to understand power in all its manifestations and could well be attracted to politics later in life.

Emotional and Feeling Nature

In this section we shall examine how Christina relates on an emotional level. This is traditionally associated with the maternal relationship but we have not made such an obvious assumption and the following section should not be read as being primarily concerned with the relationship between Christina and her mother.

Astrologically, the Moon describes her responses, sensitivity, her feeling nature, and the unconscious side of her personality. It shows her emotions and these, of course, will be filtered, or highlighted, by the sign in which the Moon falls. Most importantly, the Moon shows Christina needs.

It shows how she will react on an instinctive level.

Dependable

Moon in Capricorn

Christina needs status and respect.

Shy as a child, she will be emotionally cautious and insecure as an adult. She will rarely express her feelings or reveal her emotions, for she fears to run the risk of rejection. Christina has a very realistic appreciation of what she must do in order to achieve the things she wants, and she is not afraid of hard work.

Ambitious and determined, she will realistically appraise each opportunity for its value in furthering her progress. Christina is dependable, dignified and loyal, but her stoic self-reliance may sometimes make her appear isolated and alone.

Facets of Life and Areas of Experience

The Houses of the chart represent different facets of Christina's life and areas of her experience which in turn are 'influenced by the Moon' in slightly different ways - as detailed below.

Reactive

Moon in the 1st House

Throughout her life, Christina will retain the child-like need to receive approval and appreciation from all she comes into contact with. Highly impressionable, her sense of 'self' will be influenced by other people and early childhood experiences. Her instinctive nature is more likely to be reactive than proactive, and she may lack a sense of purpose, or have difficulty in defining her long-term goals and direction.

Natural Balance ★★★★★

Moon Sextile Venus

Christina is a natural born charmer who - with a smile, and a twinkle in her eye - will get what she wants out of life. She will grow up to be stylish and sophisticated, and much of her natural balance can be traced back to a warm and positive relationship with her mother.

My Way - 'Close One' ★★★★★

Moon Square Pluto

For Christina life, especially as regards her mother is based on the idea that if she doesn't push the button first the other person will, and this power complex derives from her relationship with her mother, which she perceives as being about control and manipulation.

She may well have things completely out of proportion but that is her prerogative. She will veer from intense charm, to tantrum, to cold, hard eyed sulk, all in order to get her own way. There is an underlying fear behind all this that can be helped by a lot of reassurance.

Christina's Relationship with her Mother

It is important to understand that the relationship between Christina and her mother will always be 'symbiotic'. In other words the way Christina's Mother behaves towards her child and the way Christina perceives her mother is so inextricably linked that it is hard to separate the one from the other. Does Christina's mother react to Christina or does Christina react to her mother? This is perhaps the original chicken and egg question, and in this section we shall try to address this issue.

Self-sufficiency

Moon in Capricorn

This is never an easy placement and, whether it is true or not, Christina will almost certainly feel she doesn't get the level of affection she should. It is as if she senses rejection and coldness all the time. Her mother will have high expectations for her and she may find it difficult to live up to these no matter how hard she tries. She may treat her as a little adult, giving her far too much responsibility too early.

Career and profession come later; she needs to find her own way rather than expecting her to live out her mother's ambitions and most importantly she needs to feel the wonderment of childhood. Christina probably expects her mother to be very traditional, to be tough on her; and being treated with gentleness and kindness might prove slightly baffling as she tends to feel unwanted or unloved, but a constant show of affection will go a long way towards alleviating her fears.

Because she is sensitive and afraid to express emotions, she can seem unresponsive and may send out messages of self-sufficiency. If she can learn to express her feelings she is unlikely to carry a sense of rejection into adult life.

Time and Space

Moon in the 1st House

Christina is a very immediate child and in her relationship with her mother can be very demanding. In her personality, Christina may tend to replicate her mother in the way she speaks, acts, etc.

She needs to have enough space to be herself and may need lots of encouragement in order to be able to do this. If she doesn't get the time and space to forge her own identity she may carry many of her mother's traits into later life. She does need her approval so it is helpful when given freely, and she will certainly respond well to praise.

Christina's mother's influence on her is very strong, for better or for worse, and it will eventually form the cornerstone for her approach to life in later years.

Face or Persona

This section looks at how Christina views the world and likes to be viewed by others. No matter what Christina's essential nature may be, all of us have a 'face' that we put on for our nearest and dearest, as well as for public consumption and this section describes that 'face or persona'.

Freedom Lover

AS ↗

Sagittarius rising

As a child, Christina is likely to be somewhat clumsy, both in her actions and her speech. Although, eventually, she may stop falling out of trees or off her bicycle, she is unlikely to grow out of her Sagittarian tactlessness until she is much older - if at all! It should be stressed, however, that this tactlessness springs not from malice, nor from a desire to hurt, but from her extreme honesty, for Christina has a high regard for the truth.

As a child at school she may lack application, and will be a less than ideal pupil if lessons are dull and routine. However, if inspired by a teacher who can stimulate her interest and who - more importantly - acknowledges her intelligence and has faith in her ability to succeed, she will rise to the challenge, regardless of whether it is intellectual, physical or creative. Christina is totally unable to resist a challenge.

"To teach is to learn twice" is a saying, which applies particularly to those born with Sagittarius rising, and Christina is likely to display the qualities of a natural teacher, and to have a life-long thirst for learning and knowledge.

The search for understanding may lead her to explore many philosophies or creeds, and involve her in many journeys - both of a cerebral and a physical nature. If the latter, Christina will be never so happy as when off on her travels, back-packing her way round the world, meeting new and interesting people and immersing herself in different cultures and communities.

Even if she never sets foot outside her hometown, freedom and personal 'space' will be important to Christina. She cannot be tied down, and will find it difficult to make long-term commitment.

The planetary ruler of those born with Sagittarius rising is Jupiter, whose nature is to expand all it touches, and Christina may therefore be prone to the 'Jupiterian' trait of exaggeration.

Nothing will ever be so ordinary as 'big': it will be 'GIGANTIC'. Every bruise and ache will be the worst pain ever endured in the history of human suffering. And practically every sentence she utters will contain the words 'a million'. The only way to counteract this is to say: "I've told you a million times already not to exaggerate").

Christina's chart ruler, Jupiter, is also the planet of optimism and confidence. As a consequence of this planetary influence, over-estimation of her abilities may lead her to bite off more than she can comfortably chew, with the end result that she will invariably be in a mad panic to meet deadlines, and be late for appointments. And the only way she may be sure of catching a train is to miss the one before!

Personal Recognition

Moon in the 1st House

Christina's early years will be of great importance to her.

Her self-expression will be largely shaped by childhood experiences and the family environment and she is likely to be a person of changeable and fluid moods, easily influenced by those around her.

It is hard to get away from the word 'child' when the Moon falls in the first house of a birth chart.

Like a child, Christina's emotions are simple and direct. And, like a child, she will seek appreciation and approval from all she comes into contact with. There will be an almost emotional need for personal recognition and the sort of unconditional love that is a child's birthright.

Throughout her life there may be an almost childlike need for security and reassurance, and there will undoubtedly be a strong emotional bond with her mother (or the main nurturer of her family).

If you think this makes Christina sound as though she's tied to her mother's apron strings, unable to grow up, think again. She's not a 'sissy', but sensitive. There's a big difference. She's sensitive not only in her feelings but in her acute awareness of the feelings of others, picking up and responding to every nuance.

She will respond well to positive and caring nurturing and, in turn, will put energy and enthusiasm into caring for others. She may take an almost 'maternal' (albeit somewhat bossy!) attitude towards her younger siblings, for example.

Although this placement of the Moon may indicate shyness and perhaps moodiness, Christina is also likely to have a desire for action and adventure which, unless it is carefully directed, could manifest itself as aggression or competitiveness.

Assertive

Mars in the 1st House

Conflict will be no stranger to Christina. From pram to pension, life will be a series of battles - exhausting to most people, but gloriously exhilarating to Christina!

She will be an assertive (often aggressive), pushy, competitive and challenging child, full of enthusiasm and fiery energy. There may be temper tantrums when she is young.

She has strong leadership qualities, but may lack 'staying power' or the management skills to support her initiating qualities. Unless her assertion is directed constructively it may turn to anger, frustration and intolerance.

Competitive sport might work off some of her excess energy, although Christina may not display a conventional sporting attitude. Indeed, she may have little concept of fair play. She will hold little truck with the idea that "the important thing is not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game". To her, winning is everything and she sees no glory is coming second.

In all she does, she will want to come first. Similarly, she may be able to understand not winning, but not wanting to win, that's impossible!

Christina will be no shrinking violet. Indeed, she will have a very positive sense of self-assertion. She has a marked dislike of weakness, and may bully others who are less confident than she is.

Mars in the first house indicates a tendency to rash conduct and impulsiveness. "Look before you leap" is a saying that will fall on deaf ears as far as Christina is concerned.

Brave, courageous and motivated, she will always be keen to throw herself fully into any challenges that life may present to her. Indeed, she will actively seek them out!

Impressionable

Neptune in the 1st House

Dreamy and sensitive, Christina is a highly impressionable child, attuned to the moods and feelings of others.

Her entire personality will be influenced by her experiences, her surroundings, and those she is involved with. In this respect she is rather like the chameleon that can easily disguise itself in order to blend in, and merge with the background.

The fundamental principle of Neptune is to dissolve, and to negate differences. Those born with Neptune in the first house of self are affected by this 'dissolving' quality, and individuals with this placement may suffer a life-long lack of strong self-identity.

Christina will probably be a great daydreamer, weaving wonderful stories in her mind, and enjoying a fantasy world where anything is possible. She will find it hard at school to concentrate on her lessons, and may lack application for such disciplines as mathematics or science, preferring (and doing well at) literature, drama, or history.

Christina is likely to be artistic, with a talent for dance, music, acting or painting (such artistry is often inspired by mystical visions, and subliminal influences). If other factors in her chart agree, she may be extremely intuitive - and possibly even clairvoyant.

The influence of Neptune on such an important sector of her chart may lead to a blurring of Christina's boundaries. She may be confused and disordered, and find it hard to distinguish between reality and illusion. And there is always a temptation, when Neptune is found in the first house, for the individual's escape from reality to be found through the medium of drink or drugs.

Christina will be a kind, compassionate and empathetic person, ever sensitive to the suffering of others. She will be attracted to 'lame dogs', the flawed, and those whose sorry plight will enable her to play the role of 'rescuer'. She will often wish to help the less fortunate even though it may involve the sacrifice of some aspect of herself. If this is taken to extremes, she could become a 'doormat' or a martyr, making few or no demands for herself.

Chapter 2 - Process of Development - Toddler to Teenager

Assertion

In this section we will be looking at the way in which Christina finds her way through the rough and tumble of childhood and later life, without being pushed around by others. The methods and approaches she uses to make sure her own needs are met and how she deals with the needs of others when they are at odds with her own.

Assertive

♂ 1st

Mars in the 1st House

Assertion is no problem for Christina - indeed rather the reverse! She also has such a great deal of physical energy, there is a need to get her outdoors and involved in some active sport or other to let off steam - often! Action is her middle name! Overly confident, highly competitive and impulsive, she usually leaps before she looks and rarely thinks about consequences, which could, of course, get her into trouble, even accidents.

Driven by her own particular wants, and independent by nature, Christina tends to think of herself and forget about her playmates' needs, which could get her into trouble in relationships later. She is quick to anger but cools off quickly and doesn't hold a grudge.

Friends and Social Attitudes

In this section we shall be looking at what sort of friends Christina needs and what she is likely to bring to friendships herself. We shall also look at the way in which she is likely to interact with social groups or whether, for example, she would prefer to be on her own.

Cautious

♏ 11th

Scorpio 11th House Cusp

Christina will tend to choose her friends very carefully and be very cautious before committing herself to friendship. Once she has committed herself she will be a friend for life, but if those close to her betray her in any way she will cut any links immediately and forever.

Light-hearted

♀ 11th

Venus in the 11th House

This child loves socialising and should have many friends, enjoying especially those who are artistic and moneyed. She needs a busy social life to be happy. This may cause her some problems through her life because her need for company, and her need to be liked by all may lead her to making incorrect judgements about people.

More on Christina's Friends and Social Groups

Aquainances

♅ 11th

Uranus in the 11th House

Christina seeks independence socially, wanting to be part of a group and yet maintaining her own independence. She should make friends easily, but may have more acquaintances than intimate friends. She may also display a desire to reform and change society, so her friends may well be of a revolutionary and liberal nature.

Power of the Mind

In this section we indicate Christina's communication and learning skills, her needs at school and requirements for her further education. Of particular interest to her parents will be how to talk and connect with her.

Inspirational

 3rd

Pisces 3rd House Cusp

There is a vague and dreamy quality to Christina's mental approach to life. She may at times be quite confused in her thinking, and at others she may exhibit a sort of inspired genius. Practical subjects, and learning by rote is not for her, as she seems to absorb knowledge through a process of mental osmosis. She has a strong imagination and a love of fantasy that is likely to be well suited to the arts.

More about Christina's Mental Approach

Direct and Truthful

Mercury in Sagittarius

Christina has a mind that thirsts for knowledge. But she will not be satisfied with accumulating simply a vast mental storeroom of facts. What is far more important to her, vital in fact is that her quest for knowledge should result in finding significance and meaning.

Mentally restless, eager to learn and to understand, she is a perpetual student, ever ready to increase her store of knowledge through books or personal experience. An 'intellectual adventurer', she delights in exploring, and will continue to delight in it to the end of her life.

Christina may be short on patience and discipline. She is not a 'detail' person. She is quick to grasp the overall picture of an idea, and tends to act with enthusiasm but with little in the way of planning and careful execution.

At school she may be somewhat slapdash in her approach to learning, and sports will probably attract her more than lessons. In fact, further or adult education may be more beneficial to her and more appropriate to her needs, than the schooling of her early learning years.

Within the school system she is likely to do well at languages, while in maturity she may be drawn to philosophy, the law, sociology, or comparative religions.

Her speech, a never-ending torrent of words! is open, direct and generally truthful. Such direct and truthful speech is never deliberately malicious, but it can often be extremely tactless. In fact, it may seem that every time Christina opens her mouth, she puts her foot in it!

A hugely entertaining way with words is the astrological talent enjoyed by those who, like Christina, have Mercury in Sagittarius. A superb raconteur, she will be always ready with one of the long and very funny 'shaggy dog' stories she loves to tell. But be warned - she is prone to wild exaggeration!

Compassionate and Empathetic

♀ 12th

Mercury in the 12th House

If Christina is hesitant about expressing her personal point of view, it may be because she has no really clear idea of what her viewpoint is. You see, her thinking is formed from impressions buried deep in her subconscious, and she operates on an intuitive level, responding more to her feelings than to her thoughts.

Her is not an intellect that can fit into a framework of rationale. Given free rein to operate as it will, her mind will develop into a rich treasure-house, enabling Christina to benefit from her greatest intellectual asset: her unsurpassed imagination.

Christina has an immensely compassionate and empathetic side to her nature, and this is reflected in her communicative skills. She would make a good advisor, for she is able to tune-in to other people's feelings and to identify fully with their problems.

Mental Data Bank - 'Close One' ★★★★★

Mercury Sextile Jupiter

Curious about a wide range of subjects, and eager to broaden her mind as much as possible, Christina will find that the acquisition of knowledge comes easily to her. She will rapidly build up a substantial mental data bank of facts, figures, and general information, and will enjoy airing her views and opinions whenever she can. She has confidence in her intellectual abilities, and may be firm in her belief that her opinion is the only right one.

To teach is to learn twice, they say, and Christina will love to pass on her knowledge and wisdom. In this respect she is an inspirational teacher, arousing great enthusiasm in the minds of others. And, even if she is not too sure of her facts, or a little imprecise with her figures, she nonetheless excels at putting over the meaning of her ideas.

Mercury Sextile Saturn

Mentally disciplined, Christina is able to use her logical and practical mind to plan constructively and shape her thinking. Academically, she is not afraid of hard work; her preparation is thorough; and she is ready to do what may be necessary to achieve success.

Earning and Spending Money

In this section we shall look at how Christina is likely to develop in terms of her attitude towards the acquisition and expenditure of money.

Respect

♁ 2nd

Capricorn 2nd House Cusp

Christina is ambitious for wealth and, more particularly, for the respect it can buy her. She will work long and hard in order to make money and, once she's got it, she'll make it work for her. She will invest her money wisely and shrewdly.

Power of Money

Venus in Scorpio

Christina is very aware of the power of money, and knows how to use it to her advantage. She will rarely - if ever - have occasion to throw herself on the mercy of her bank manager for an overdraft, for she will invariably have a secret fund of money held in reserve. Preferring to deal with other people's money rather than her own, she could be attracted to the profession of a stockbroker, investment consultant or banker.

Social Attitude

♀ 11th

Venus in the 11th House

Christina may well develop a very democratic, if not social, attitude to money. She is unlikely to be the type who carps about such things as higher taxes if she can see genuine benefits for the less well off in society.

Chapter 3 - Preparing for Independence

Higher Education and Establishing Values

In this section we shall examine how Christina is likely to find her place in society, as she grows older. What standards she will set for herself and what she values most. This will probably not become clear until Christina has reached at least the puberty stage.

Virgo in 9th House

Virgo 9th House Cusp

Christina is only interested in learning if it useful and practical to her and is strongly focused in the 'here and now' and the tangible. She likes to learn about diet, health and work procedures. She is suited to doing anything that involves detailed work and requires conscientious approach.

Jupiter in Libra

Jupiter in Libra

Christina is likely to be highly principled, with a strong sense of justice. The law, and egalitarian issues, will be of particular interest and concern to her, and could well be the subject of study in higher education. She will also probably decide, from the social point of view that, going on to further education is an excellent idea.

Christina's Education

Jupiter in 9th House

Jupiter in the 9th House

The importance of broadening her outlook and acquiring knowledge cannot be over-estimated, and Christina's aim in life is to share her knowledge with others. She would make an excellent and inspirational teacher.

Fair-minded and tolerant, her sense of justice could also indicate an interest in the workings of the law, all of which requires a good deal of education. If Christina does not decide to go off and learn from the wider university of life she will extract a great deal from further education.

Jupiter Sextile Mercury - 'Close One' ★★★★★

Jupiter Sextile Mercury

Christina is one of those rare creatures who actually enjoys learning! Her mind is well developed, and her natural curiosity practically insatiable. She will probably be keen to go on to higher education at the appropriate time.

She can think a project through, and she is able to imagine the consequences of any plan. Her thought processes are positive - and optimistic!

She will grow into a clear and comfortable sense of her own identity and validity that she will use for the benefit of others.

Jupiter Square Mars ★☆☆☆☆

Jupiter Square Mars

Energetic, enthusiastic and assertive, this child has an immense faith in her own abilities and, as a consequence, is unwilling ever to take 'No' for an answer. Should she be thwarted, her assertion is likely to turn - extremely swiftly - to aggression. Christina may have difficulty in controlling her temper.

Christina may display, as she grows older, a kind of anger with the universe she has been born into. Her own value system will most likely be forged more through antagonism rather than the concept of co-operation.

Jupiter Conjunct Saturn - 'Close One' ★★★★★

Jupiter Conjunction Saturn

Christina is likely to meet certain obstacles during her lifetime, and these must be tackled and overcome before she can develop. For instance, a pessimistic streak may prevent her from seeing opportunities or she may lack the confidence to take advantage of them when she does spot them. Rigidity of thought may inhibit flexibility of aspiration.

Christina is likely to establish her own personal belief system based on the idea of constant change. She will always feel that any established system, her own included, should be regularly replaced to prevent rot setting in. In this sense she has what might be termed a revolutionary streak.

Approach to Daily Working Life

This section will look at how Christina may approach the thorny problem of working for a living. Naturally this will not begin to show until her teenage years, but as with everything else, forewarned is forearmed and there will always be ways to produce the most positive outcome!

Gemini in 6th House

Gemini 6th House Cusp

Work for Christina should involve the use of her hands or her agile and versatile communication skills.

Mercury in Sagittarius

Working in the travel industry would be an ideal job for Christina. Her relaxed and easy way enables her to get on well with people from foreign countries, and she would make an excellent holiday representative or tour guide. She might also be drawn to work in the educational field, or to a job connected with publishing.

Mercury in 12th House

Because of her over-active imagination, Christina may find she is drawn to work where she can give full rein to her talent for creative writing. There is an artistic side to her nature which could be attracted to film-making or acting. Her well-developed qualities of empathy and compassion could be made use of in the healing professions, or in psychology.

Career and Ambitions

In this section we shall look at how Christina might approach the outside world in terms of possible careers and potential ambitions as she grows to maturity. Naturally these traits are unlikely to show until Christina is at least in her teens.

Pluto in 10th House

Pluto in the 10th House

Christina will apply her unbreakable will to matters concerned with career. She will experience an overwhelming desire to succeed, and will allow nothing to stand in her way.

But this does not mean she will simply bulldoze her way to the top. No one is more skilled than Christina when it comes to seeing the need for change and, at crucial stages of her career, she may 're-invent' herself in order to achieve her aims.

Saturn in Libra

'How to Win Friends and Influence People' is a book which Christina will have no real need to read, for she has an innate sense of social awareness and responsibility, and knows instinctively how to get the best from others. She knows, too, that far more is gained by co-operation than by force.

The wheels of her professional life will be liberally oiled by her harmonious social relationships and her ability to interact with other people. Her career, therefore, should make the most of her social skills and special strengths in dealing with other people, and she would do well in the Law, or in one of the arbitration, mediation, or advisory services.

But there is a slight drawback to the picture of Christina as a 'latter-day Solomon', dispensing wisdom and rulings to all and sundry. Because one of the things she fears most is to be considered unjust, unfair, or biased in some way, she may act preventively, over-compensating by being a little too rigid in her interpretation of fairness or justice, and this of course may appear harsh and unjust to others.

Christina may defer marrying until she is fully mature, or may choose an older partner, or one whose professional status or social position can aid her own professional aspirations.

Saturn in 9th House

Saturn in the 9th House

Christina takes the whole issue of education very seriously and so teaching might be a suitable profession for her.

Travel is another field, which may appeal. Working as a travel agent; in a travel-related occupation such as air traffic control, or Customs & Excise; or dealing with foreign exchange students, for instance, could all be suitable occupations for Christina.
